The inner word: What's in your heart?

It's simple: Make a promise and keep it. But life happens; vows are broken, truthfulness is blurred. Jesus reminds you that he accepts your humanity and gives you God's perspective: what you can't see, what you can't hear, and what only your heart can know. God is there. When are you humbled by God's covenant of love? Be assured: God doesn't break promises.

FINAL CMA COLLECTION for 2014

We will take up a second collection on the weekend of February 22, 23 to close this year's Catholic Ministries Appeal for the diocese. We have done very well this year towards our set goal and it is time to bring this to a conclusion so that we can concentrate on the activities of the holy season of Lent. We thank all those who have so generously made their pledges and contributions. We still have a balance of $3344.38 to make our goal and so I am appealing to all of you to one more time a make a sacrifice for this one weekend to help raise the remaining balance. Please know that every donation, no matter how much, will be appreciated.

Thank you and God bless.

Fr. Stephen

After a civil divorce, is a Catholic obligated to pursue an annulment?

Many Catholics are not exactly sure what an annulment does. An annulment does not deny that a marriage took place, nor does it deny that there once was love. It does not mean that people say anything untrue, such as they never loved each other or that everything in their marriage was wrong. An annulment does not negate children, nor make them illegitimate. An annulment addresses the spiritual aspect of marriage. In effect, an annulment says that at the time of the wedding, there was either something present or something absent that prevented the sacrament from taking place. It is a spiritual determination that, if granted in the affirmative, allows a person to marry in the church.

Annulments have no legal standing and are unable to be used in a civil court. Therefore, a Catholic has no moral obligation to pursue an annulment. However, when the tragedy of divorce occurs, and there is no hope for reconciliation, annulments may help bring some spiritual closure to a person's life. Some people have found the process to be healing and others have found it to be difficult. Speak to your priest or a member of the Diocesan Tribunal staff to decide what is best for you.

WOMEN'S RETREAT - The Women's Retreat at Notre Dame Retreat House will be March 28 - 30. If you are interested or would like more information, please call Sandy Barr @ 335-8467

Must I receive both the body and the blood of Christ to receive him fully?

In recent years there has been a renewed interest and practice of receiving the Eucharist under both forms or species, bread and wine. But this is not necessary to receive the eucharistic presence of Christ. The Council of Trent taught that the presence of Christ in the Eucharist begins with the words of consecration and endures as long as the species of bread and wine subsist. Furthermore, Christ is present whole and entire in both species and in all parts of the species. So if the bread is broken the presence of Christ is not divided (CCC 1377). If one receives a larger portion of bread, they do not receive more Christ!

In the General Instruction of the Roman Missal, paragraph 281 states, "Holy Communion has a fuller form as a sign when it is distributed under both kinds." Paragraph 282 goes on to remind us that we are not deprived of any grace necessary for salvation when we receive Communion under one form. People who are allergic to wheat may receive just the cup and they gain the same grace and presence as one who receives just the bread. Christ is present fully and completely, whatever the sacramental form we choose.
